

SANDAS Conference 2014

23-24 October 2014 Stamford Grand Adelaide - Glenelg, South Australia

As a leading voice in drug and alcohol policy advice in South Australia, the SA Network of Drug and Alcohol Services (SANDAS) is proud to be hosting its Inaugural Conference, the SANDAS Conference 2014 - Creating a Leadership Culture in the South Australian AOD Sector

Details on two intimate Masterclasses on Wednesday 22 October coming soon – email registrations@sandas.org.au to register your interest!

The Conference centres on the themes of Leadership, the Client Journey, and Working with Complexity, and aims to encourage a positive culture with the South Australian AOD sector that is forward thinking and proactive.

The Conference is taking place at the Stamford Grand Hotel, Glenelg, on 23 & 24 October 2014.

Why Attend?

The Conference provides numerous opportunities for learning, networking and collaboration across the SA AOD sector, as well as an invaluable opportunity to share experiences between attendees and engage in lively discussion and debate.

Plus

- > Social networking opportunities in beautiful beachside Glenelg!
- > Conference chill out space

Who should attend?

- > Drug and alcohol workers
- > Substance misuse workers
- > Healthcare workers, professionals, GPs and nurses
- > Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Service staff
- > Alcohol and other drugs representative bodies
- > Policy makers and funders
- > Community representatives and advocates
- > Local and State Government representatives
- > Researchers & Students

Register Now

Register online at

<http://sandasconference2014.eventbrite.com.au/>

Full details available at <http://sandasconference2014.com.au>

SANDAS

204 Wright St
Adelaide SA 6000

p (08) 8231 8818

The SANDAS Conference 2014 is sponsored by the Australian Government Department of Health.

International Keynote

Mark Gilman is the Strategic Recovery Lead for Public Health in England, with extensive experience working in addiction, designing and developing recovery oriented systems of care for people with substance misuse problems in the UK. Mark has been working with problem drug users since the days of the 'bad trip tents' at Free Festivals in the North West of England in the 1970s.

"The only real 'experts' in recovery are those people who have done it or are doing it."

International Keynote

Christine Duncan MSW is the CEO of Scottish Families Affected by Alcohol and Drugs, and has lead several third sector organisations working to support children and families where a large number were impacted by substance misuse. She currently sits on the National Naloxone Advisory Group and the National Forum for Drug Related Deaths in Scotland; is working with Edinburgh University on a study looking at the impact of substance misuse on families with specific reference to anxiety and depression; and is also part of another study with the Universities of Bath and Stirling to consider the impact of drug related deaths on families.

National Keynote

Etty Matalon is a Clinical Psychologist and is the National Clinical Training Manager for the National Cannabis Prevention and Information Centre (NCPIC) at UNSW. Etty has 25 years clinical experience in the alcohol and other drug field having worked at two major teaching hospitals in Sydney; as the Clinical Co-ordinator for a women's detoxification service and as the Program Manager at a psychiatric hospital. Throughout her career she has worked closely with the National Drug and Alcohol Research Centre. Etty's role at NCPIC is to coordinate and disseminate best practice information and education and deliver training over a range of treatment interventions.